Classroom News

I am looking forward to hearing the students' individual selections for Speech Festival on Friday, May 26th in the classroom at 9:00. Please help your student memorize their selection and practice speaking slowly and clearly. Feel free to come to the classroom to watch.

Thank you to the volunteers already signed up for the trips to the Apple Store and the zoo! There are still openings for both. If you are interested in joining us, please sign up on Volgistics.

Curriculum Focus for Next Week

Religion

Kindergarten is in charge of POW to honor our 8th grade buddies on Wednesday, June 7th at 8:20. We will be preparing for this as well as thinking about prayers we can say for our buddies as they head to high school!

Language Arts

We are working on our group presentation for Speech Festival. At the Speech Festival, each classroom will be performing a group chorale piece. Kindergarten will perform Today I Will Fly! by Mo Willems. You're invited to watch all of the performances on June 8th beginning at 1:45.

We are writing narratives that have a beginning, middle, and end. The students are participating in the writing process of planning, writing, edit and revising, and finally publishing their work.

Math

We will be learning about coins. We will identify the coins and learn their value. We are using poetry to help make learning the coins easier. A page with the poems will come home daily to practice saying; then pull out some real coins to practice naming and saying the value. Refer to the poem to help with identifying.

Science

We have built fairy tale houses and will work on writing about who lives in the houses within the Book Creator app. The students will also build their houses within Scratch, Jr. and add codes to make their characters go in and out of the houses.

School News

The Mac Attack continues! Please help us with this battle against hunger by bringing in boxes of Mac and Cheese by May 25th.
